Senator Paul Yuzyk – A Vision of Diversity Celebrated "Architect of Multiculturalism" by Luba Fedorkiw

Senator Paul Yuzyk

■ On June 24, 2017, posthumously, Senator Paul Yuzyk was awarded the Canadian Ethnocultural Council Award for Multiculturalism. His active profile in Ukrainian academia at the University of Manitoba (Slavic Dept), authorship on historical Ukrainian Canadian topics and community leadership earned him an appointment to the Upper Chamber, as Senator on February 4, 1963. It is there that he championed the concept of multiculturalism, human rights and national defense. For his role in shaping the policy of multiculturalism, he has been called the "Father of Multiculturalism."

In 1964, Liberal Prime Minister Lester Pearson launched The Royal Commission on Bilingualism and Biculturalism. In his maiden speech in the Upper Chamber on March 3, 1964, titled, Canada: A Multicultural Nation, the newly appointed senator from Manitoba balked at the notion of cultural dualism of two solitudes.

Senator P. Yuzyk, as a young teacher, personally experienced the tribulations of being a Canadian born Ukrainian, educated in Canada, and, still being refused employment due an ethnic surname.

He was proud of his pioneering family—their roots, contributions and tenacity at a time when ethnicity was not celebrated. He also witnessed similar perseverance of other diligent working immigrants. He argued: "those who did not descend from either of the so-called founding nations—the 'third element' in Canadian society—saw their share of the population more than double since the turn of the century. "Where was their story acknowledged in Canadian history?

Multiculturalism, the concept as we know it today—or "unity in continuing diversity" he affirmed, "should be celebrated as part of what makes Canadians who they are, but also Canada what it is." Is that not what manifests unobtrusively today?

Volume IV of the Royal Commission was specifically assigned and dedicated to ethnic groups in Canada highlighting their contributions. Included were recommendations.

The Ukrainian Canadian Congress, academics, businessmen, Ukrainian organizations and the general community were at the forefront of lobbying for the adoption of multiculturalism as a reality in Canada. It was progressive and relevant. It was a path to accredit the significant contribution of multi-ethnic communities and embrace them in the tapestry of multiregional Canada.

Currently, it is well recognized and accepted that Canada's identity has been shaped by the original indigenous inhabitants, the ancestors who pioneered before us and the immigrants who arrived from all parts of the world seeking to build a new life and call Canada "home." Canada's name, originated from the indigenous Ka-nata (meaning a village). It is a young country and remains, a land of opportunity and hope.

The late Senator Paul Yuzyk's words are just as valid today as they were when he had a vision for this multicultural country: "This principle, in keeping the democratic way, encourages citizens of all ethnic origins to make their best contributions to the development of a general Canadian culture as essential ingredients in nation-building process."

Canada's policy of Bilingualism and Multiculturalism was officially announced by the late Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau, at the Triennial Congress of Ukrainian Canadians, held at the Fort Gary Hotel in Winnipeg, Manitoba (October, 1971). On October 8, 1971 in the House of Commons, the Prime Minister stated: "Although there are two official languages, there is no official culture nor does any ethnic group take precedence over any other." (Hansard)

As we conclude commemorating the 125th Anniversary of Ukrainian immigration to Canada, the acknowledgement of Dr. Paul Yuzyk, (1913-1986), son of pioneers in Saskatchewan is most appropriate and timely.

Ottawa—"As Canadian flags throughout the national capital region flew at half mast, Sen. Paul Yuzyk, the Ukrainian who drafted Canada's multiculturalism policy and occupied a seat in the Senate for 23 years, was buried here July 14th." (Michael B. Bociurkiw, The Ukrainian Weekly, Sunday, July 20, 1986)

In celebrating Canada's 150th anniversary of Confederation, the honour bestowed upon a distinguished citizen underscores to all Canadians the profound difference he made in our Canadian history.

As Canadians, we can stand tall and take pride in

1) the majesty and uniqueness of Canada,

- 2) the willingness to understand and reconcile errors of our history,
- 3) affirm our common Canadian heritage and most importantly
- 4) promote our individual and collective "unity in the continuing diversity" as defined in the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and the Multiculturalism Policy of Canada.

Quotes:

"Canada's greatest strength is in its diversity, and I'm proud to see multiculturalism flourish in communities right across this great country, as shown time and time again by the extraordinary strength of Ukrainian Canadians—who see no contradictions in being proud Ukrainians and proud Canadians at the same time."

Prime Minister Justin Trudeau

"The work of the late Senator Yuzyk, is instrumental in defining our shared values and the celebration of our cultural richness and diversity."
